neighbors over at Ætnaville make a good showing for the year just closed. On their capital stock of $185,000—they show a net profit of a little over nine and a half per cent for the year. During the six months ending June 30th their profits were $7,975 14, and for the six.months were $1,975 25 09: Considering the fact that the Ælm Works commenced business right on the heels of the panic of 1873, and that they have been doing business on a falling and demoralized market ever since, and the situation of the two parts for the two years is quite encouraging.
It demonstrates that the establishment can tide itself over these times into a more prosperous future, and this is a very important demonstration. The great question among iron men all over the country just at this time is as to who shall live and who shall die. It is the Darwinian question of "the survival of the fittest." In the flush times of 1852-373

Is the Sabbath a Jewish Institu-tion? To the Editors of the Intelligencer.

To the Editors of the Intelligencer.

A vowed infidels and some professed Christians, who are but a single remove from them, are discussing the Sabbath question, as it is called, in the columns of various papers; and are coolly assuming that the Sabbath belongs to that part of the Levitical economy which was ended at the coming of Christ.

An article over the signature of Moses, taken from the Chicago Tribune, and published in the INTELHORMORE of the 10th inst., asks that the readers shall admit that the Sabbath of the Jews was purely a Jewish Institution, and was obligatory on no other people. If the reader will admit whatever premises the writer may present, he can draw his own conclusions. Indeed it would be much claired and qually logical, to first present the conclusions and then construct the premises so as to suit them. From the Brookly Bagke,

If it be true that what is one man's meat is another man's poison, it is equally true, of course, that what is one man's poison is another man's meat. The nxiom, as amended, is fully verified in this good city of Brooklyn, where men are deriving handsome incomes from that most disgusting and abhorrent of all disseases, small-pox. A new business os vital importance to the community habeen started, and hundreds of thousandt of men, women and children are walking about with its badge on their arms.

Having got an inkling of the fact, an Eagle reporter was disputched to the headquarters of the business, at No. 11 Tillary street; and found himself on arriving there confronted by Dr. N. A. Robbins, the presiding finanger or head of the firm. The Doctor handed the reporter a card, which set forth the fact that No. 11 Tillary street was the "Depot for Supply of Vaccine Virus, both Animal and Humanized." A long conversation followed, and the reporter herein notes down the result of it for the enlightenment and benefit of the readers of the Eagle.

It is very desirable in a city so large as

Thus there is furnished a variety of virus which is certainished a variety of virus which is certainished a variety of virus which is so justly celebrated in this country is known as the Beaugeney stock. It was discovered in Beaugeney, in France, in 1869, and has beentransmitted from calf to calf ever since. It was imported by Dr. Martin, of Boaton, and is to-day the only stock of animal virus in the country. At this juncture, when small-pox is prevalent, and when every one is thinking of being vaccinated himself and having his family similarly protected against the dreadful disease, it is of the very first importance that there should be regular depots for the supply of fresh, reliable virus in large quantities. It is almost impossible to turnish humanized virus thus, but with boving the task is comparatively easy. There are but few large dealers, however, in animal virus in the United States. The best known are Dr. Martin, of Boston; Dr. Foster, qd New York; Dr.	Columbus
